Congress Urged to Pass Anti-Radical Law

ARREST OF MARTENS ORDERED; HEARINGS OF ALLEGED REDS ARE HURRIED AT ELLIS ISLAND

Reputed Leader of Communist Party in U. S., Sought by Officials, Believed to Be in Washington; Speed Not Expected in Deportation Hearings.

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Jan. 7.—A warrant for the arrest and deportation of Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, self styled ambassador of the Russian soviet government, has been ordered executed by the department of justice.

Martens, regarded, officials say, as the real leader of the communist party in the United States, was said to be in Washington. His arrest was expected soon.

Determination of the government to take Martens into custody came after all evidence which had a bearing on activities of the Russian soviet bureau in New York had been assembled by Assistant Attorney General Garvan.

Martens came to Washington nearly a week ago from New York and with his secretary and other assistants has occupied a suite at a local hotel less than three blocks from the department of justice.

To provide a place of concentration for the radical alien taken in the recent raids of the department of labor, the department of justice took steps to reopen Ellis Island to its full capacity.

Senator Urge Action.

Need of adequate laws to deal with persons advocating the overthrow of government by force or violence, was urged today by Senator Stirling during consideration of the sedition bill in the senate.

The bill, he declared, did not prohibit discussion as to forms of government, pointing out that a man could advocate a soviet government without violating its sedition laws.

Answering an inquiry by Senator Green, as to whether one man the warden, had power to say whether a book or newspaper violated the sedition act, Senator Stirling said the power had to be lodged somewhere and since the postmaster general was the head of the mail system, he would be the proper man to determine whether the law had been violated. The right, he added, to court was always open, he added.

Senator Borah declared the bill, in authorizing the postmaster general to exclude certain books and papers from the mails, could ruin a man's business before he could obtain a hearing.

"The business of advocating the overthrow of the government is not a business that is entitled to any consideration," said Senator Edge. Deportation Begun.

New York, Jan. 7.—Hearings in the cases of more than 500 alleged Reds held at Ellis Island on deportation proceedings began today before immigration inspectors. They were taken singly from the detention quarters to small interview rooms where a stenographer recorded their testimony. They were asked whether they were members of the communist party and whether they believed in the overthrow of the government of the United States by government.

The speed at which the hearings will be completed will depend on the attitude of the radical aliens. Byron M. Uhl, acting commissioner at the island, estimated that the force of inspectors could complete from 30 to 40 hearings daily unless the extremists prove recalcitrant and interfere technically.

Soon Not Expected.

Speedy completion of deportation preliminaries is not expected. At least three New York lawyers who have made a specialty of defending Reds since raids began in December are ready to conduct protracted proceedings. Counsel for an alien is permitted to attend the hearings and file briefs. The finding of the inspector is subject to approval by the commissioners at the island and by authorities at Washington. When deportation is finally ordered an alien can seek to bring his case before the courts by habeas corpus proceedings.

Many of those arrested in recent raids are likely to be released on bail soon. Secretary Wilson has decided upon $10,000 as the amount and bail conditions for release in their cases by Washington will be entertained as soon as the preliminary hearings are completed.

Sixteen persons serving Ellis Island as the result of the immigration and naturalization laws have been released by the Immigration and Naturalization Service here, in some cases they have found to be citizens and in others it developed that there has been improper identification in making the arrests.

MALEN, FEDERAL OFFICER CHARGED AS RED, IS RELEASED

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Rafael Malen, formerly a clerk for the Federal Trade commission, arrested by local authorities, was at liberty today after his release was ordered on a bond of $1,000. He was accused of starting a number of women and destroying their bodies.

Malen, the alleged "bluebeard," who is accused of starting a number of women and destroying their bodies, claim to have found about 15 pounds of human bones in a house where he lived. Among the bones was a skull in a good state of preservation. Some of the bones had been cut with a saw, the teeth of which left peculiar marks which were easily recognizable. It is said the saw has been found and that marks made by its teeth coincide with those found on the bone fragments.

Inquiry as to the operations of Malen's wife, says the police, shows she was an "admitted accomplice" of her husband and "knew of everything he did." It is also charged their children aided in disposing of property secured by Landru in the course of his alleged crimes.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Reversal of the action of the 1919 legislature in ratifying the prohibition amendment to the United States constitution was urged by Governor Smith in his message to the 1920 legislature today.

The governor said there was grave doubt as to the power of several state legislatures that have ratified the 18th amendment to do so in view of the constitutional provision in their respective constitutions.

"It is my understanding," he said in the message, "that this question is to be passed upon by referendum in several of the states. Pending their action and the ultimate decision of the nation, the question of whether the 18th amendment has been legally adopted may be considered an open question, not only in fact but in law."

If then, the question is pending in several of the states sufficient in number of themselves or joined with the state of New York to include the number required for ratification, the 18th amendment below the necessary three fourths, it would seem to be the duty of the state of New York not only to its own citizens, but for advice to the citizens of other states, to state what its true opinion is in the circumstances or its opinion since the resolution was passed ratifying the proposed amendment to the constitution.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Hundreds possibly thousands of lives were lost which shook the state of Vera Cruz Saturday night. So widespread was the damage done by the shock and so wild are some of the sections that suffered from it that it is probable the number of casualties will never be known.

First dispatches received here state that 1,000 persons lost their lives at Cozumel. These reports which are said at both cities to be reliable, confirm information given on that day by presidential military headquarters.

"Thirty lives were lost at Tuxpan, where three churches and 40 houses were destroyed;

Volcanic eruptions have occurred at Cozumel Peñon, from which point to the volcano of Orizaba, the center of the disturbance, a distance of 20 miles.

Reports received here state that there was nothing else they could do "but accept or face disaster and defeat" after the federal government had determined to use all the forces at its command to complete the resumption of work at the mines.

"We decided to let the operators but we could not. It was wanted to have whipped the strongest government on the face of the earth—our government which has just finished whipping Peruvians," said Green.

Evidence is gathered.

"We are all within communities honeycombed with seditionists gathering evidence against our men, our funds tied up, every officer of the organization threatened with arrest and our women and children facing starvation, how in the name of God could we have continued the strike?" Green asked.

Delegates indicated their approval of the action taken by the officers by prolonged applause of Green's speech.

Green declared public sentiment was so strong against the miners after the government had taken the miners' strike, that the public would have approved anything the government might have done.

PACKED HOUSE SEES "THE MIRACLE MAN" SEASON'S FIRST SHOW

Famous "Death" Play Scores Hit and Demonstrates Need For More Good Attractions in Janesville.

George M. Cohen's well known play "The Miracle Man," dramatized from Frank L. Packard's novel of the same name which has already found its way to the screen, when it created a profound impression, was at the Bijou Theatre last night with a good cast headed by John Milian and Jane Stewart in the leading roles.

"Those who come to see remain to pray," tells the story, in a nutshell. In a small mining town there lived an old hermit who, by some mysterious power, which he called faith, succeeded in practically banishing disease from the community. John Madison, a crook, runs across the story of the Miracle and proceeds to capitalize it using his confederates several of his New York cronies, including Helena, his "queen."

He then palms herself off on the old hermit as his one lost grand-nephew. Then come the two others, one a supposed consumptive and the other an epileptic. The plan is that they are to be "cured." The Miracle is to be advertised prominently which means your visit to the shrine to test the old man's powers and the gold is to go to the grand-nieces and to be passed on to the gang.

Up to a point the plans worked as the crooks hoped. The supposed cripple after due rehearsing permits himself to be cured, but his partners a factor influencing a little crippled the village son of one of the double-crosses, the pretended miracle and is, by reason of his health, unable to walk. The gang is completely mystified by the real miracle. One by one the members of the gang astounded at the Miracle Man's mysterious powers and the restoration, the trio is the dual mystery.

Supporting the principals were found the names of Geraldine Wood, Robert Craig, Carl Norman, Sidney Leonard, Gertrude Valentine, Ted McClain, Lucille Adams, Ben Anderson, Wm. A. Tully by appearing to advantage in their individual characters.

This is the first taste of real big attraction Janesville has had this season. More of the better class drama and musical productions would be well patronized.

COURT FINE MUST BE PAID, HUNTER LEARNS

Alleged attempt of Stiner Kravek, unlawful hunter, to pass a faulty check on the local municipal court in payment of his fine, today cost him $11 additional and a severe lecture by Judge Maxfield.

Kravek was fined $50 here two weeks ago for molesting miners in houses. He paid part of the fine in cash, giving the rest in a Beloit bank, leaving the balance $29. Two days later the check came back, marked "no funds."

Since that time police have been looking for him and the judge has been worrying. He was finally brought into court today, where he explained he thought the check was good because he had a certificate of deposit of $500 in the Beloit bank. He professed ignorance that checks could not be drawn against such a deposit.

He was ordered to pay the $29 balance due at once in addition to costs amounting to $1.

"Here boy, what's your name?"

"Hunting Eye."

"Where do you live?"

"In the North Woods."

"Well you're sort of out of my territory. If you want to get in it, then you'll have to go back there."

The curiosity of the Indian Boy was now aroused. This man had started to question him while he was peacefully standing in front of the house of his friend, the mayor and he wanted to know the reason.

"I have no right to ask you that."

"Oh, that ought to be easy."

"Well it isn't. It is a big job. The government has many thousands of men and women working on it. You must know from time to time how many people there are in the country. So every 10 years a count is taken of them."

"But the government needs to know many things besides the mere number of people. So in order to get all the right noses, the census takers find out a lot of other information about each person. You can see from looking at this form. For instance, we find out whether the person has any property, his age, color, whether he is married or not, where he lives, if he can read and write, his native language, his occupation, whether he works for himself or for some one else. All of these things it is important for the government to know."

"What is done with this?"

"The census is taken under the direction of the Census Bureau in Washington. After we get through filling in these forms the information for all the people, the material is sent to the Census Bureau. This Bureau puts together the information from all over the country. Then it puts all this into a report which there are new people in all classes and commercial classes. This report is made up of from 10 to 15 or more books, each one of them as thick through as your head. It is distributed to people throughout the country at a certain price, so that not only the government but everybody can use the figures that it contains."

Voice of the People

Mr. Editor:

Your editorial "Sunday Recreation" was with great interest and I desire with you that something should be done to give the large number of new people places to gather Sunday afternoon and evening where there would be good wholesome fellowship and recreation.

I do not agree with you that the Utilitarian Club and bowling alleys should be opened on Sunday as they would not be under proper supervision.

I am told by young men who are in the habit of visiting cigar stores and billiard halls that many of them are gambling joints. If they are open on Sunday, it will give you another day for gambling. What is the matter with our officials? Why do they allow gambling openly? What assurance have we that there will be better regulation on Sunday than there is during the week?

BEHIND THE PLAN.

I reckon when the world we leave
And cease to smile and cease to grieve,
When each of us shall quit the strife
And drop the working tools of life.
Somewhere, somehow, we'll come to find
Just what our Maker had in mind.

Perhaps through clearer eyes than these We'll read life's hidden mysteries
And learn the reason for our tears—
Why sometimes came unhappy years,
And why our dearest joys were brief
And bound so closely unto grief.

There is so much beyond our scope,
As blindly on through life we grope,
So much we cannot understand,
However wisely we have planned.
That all who walk this earth about
Are constantly beset by doubt.

No one of us can truly say
Why loved ones must be called away,
Why hearts are hurt, or e'en explain
Why some must suffer years of pain;
Yet some day all of us shall know
The reason why these things are so.

I reckon in the years to come,
When these poor lips of clay are dumb,
And these poor hands have ceased to toil,
Somewhere upon a fairer soil
God shall to all of us make clear
The purpose of our trials here.

his confidence. Lenin's forces are scoring successes in all directions. Anti-Bolshevist forces are not harmonious. If the Entente countries will not go to war with the Lenin government there will be nothing left to do but come to an agreement with it. Yet "peace" with Lenin will mean nothing more than opportunity for him to extend bolshevism.

NOW FOR BUSINESS.

The hotel project which has been more or less in a dormant state for several months, promises to go through in a hurry when the organization for raising funds is completed. The committee in charge of the preliminary work has been handicapped by several phases of the proposition. Now that the articles of incorporation have been signed and a definite plan of action is ready to present, the public will no doubt readily respond to the call for subscription pledges. Many who have a few hundred dollars to invest in the hotel have signified their intentions to buy stock as soon as it is offered to them. These men and women, in addition to those who will take the larger blocks, will strengthen the organization by their numbers. Every stockholder will be a booster.

With the Chamber of Commerce organization to promote the campaign and with the aid of the Lakota club and other young business men as auxiliaries, the drive for funds should be put over with little delay.

THE CHURCHES COVID HELP.

Going farther into the social problem which Janesville must consider, the thought arises that the churches could enlarge their activities in such a way that the people who are coming here to take their places in industry and business could utilize the edifices to a fuller extent.

In many cities churches have installed club rooms for both men and women which are open to the members every evening during the week and which are well patronized. Special efforts are made to reach the young people who are forced to live in rooms and whose social life is limited.

As soon as Janesville builds a new Y. M. C. A. and provides a Y. W. C. A. or other woman's building, the recreation angle to the situation will be somewhat relieved.

However, with the daily arrival of more people who come to make this city their permanent homes, temporary means of affording them recreation would add to their comfort and promote the city as a good place in which to work and make a home.

A BRUTAL SPECTACLE.

The Chicago's sheriff's plan of picking out 200 "hard guys" from the Cook county jail's population of 400 and compelling them to look on while a fellow man suffered the law's extreme penalty on the scaffold may be one method of conveying a strong lesson, but few of enlightened instincts will give consent to the theory. The warden's explanation that "when they are released from jail they will have something to remember," is no more convincing than the general proposal, since no man is improved morally, not even "some of the hardest guys in the jail" by brutality.

The idea that "hard guys" will be so much affected by the spectacle of a man being hanged legally that their ordinary conduct will be revised in the direction of a finer morality, was combated by Chicago's residents of refinement and delicacy, without effect. The chosen 200 were taken from their cells and put into others facing the scaffold upon which a fellow prisoner paid the penalty for a capital crime, but reports of the gruesome affair do not support the warden's claim that the sight would mark a moral improvement in the spectators. Fortunately this is the first instructive entertainment of that nature and the wish will be general that it is the last.

SILK HATS FOR HELMETS?

Silk hat manufacturers in London have become overwhelmed with such an increase of orders as to arouse wonderment. The centenary of the silk hat celebrated last year evoked comment on this side of the ocean on the rapid disappearance of the "storepipe" which emerges only on the most formal occasions, although 30 years ago everybody in New York seemed to be wearing one daily. Nowadays a plug hat sets the beholder looking around for the three-shell table or the medicine tent.

Even in Europe where fashions, like everything else, change slowly, the top hat has been going into eclipse as an everyday headpiece. The motor car is probably responsible. Why, then, this sudden revival that is stirring the London hat makers? Had it been before the Versailles conference with its thousands of attachés and experts the answer would have been easy. Most of the orders are coming from Holland and Sweden, and the Daily Mail darkly suspects their ultimate destination is Germany!

Is the revulsion from militarism so intense in the Fatherland that the populace is taking to high hats in place of helmets? Is the silk hat to be the symbol of democracy in Central Europe? But our London contemporary may be wrong. They may not be going to Germany, but to Russia, a more likely place. Having kicked the czar's crown into the Neva, the sovereign voters of all the Russias may have adopted the "plug" as the crown of the dictatorship of the proletariat. Its excellence for conversational purposes has been tested on millions of platforms by demagogues in all lands.

Educating Mothers

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director

Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

We are more or less familiar with the stories of city babies dying from heat in crowded tenements, or freezing to death from exposure. We know less of the hardships which babies and their mothers bear in remote districts. Forty-five miles to the nearest doctor is no common situation in our boundless west.

In one case, the doctor traveled 10 miles to see a child in convulsions. After riding several hours, he lost his way in the night and had to return to town. The next morning he set out again and reached the home by 3 o'clock, but the baby had died. He was blamed for the roads were in such a condition that no mail could be sent over them. In such districts a public health nurse is a vital necessity.

Nurses selected to care for mothers and infants according to standards of the Children's Bureau should not only be graduates with hospital training, but should have had practical experience in public health work. A poor nurse is worse than none at all, in the opinion of the bureau's experts. They cite in this connection the case of a inexperienced mother who engaged a nurse for her first baby. The girl had had only a correspondence course in nursing, and no practical experience. The first three days the nurse fed the baby cow's milk and swelled the baby's body with various patent foods. She kept the baby asleep with dope nearly all the time, and when it was 10 days old it

HOW ABOUT HETEROCLOITIC?
Isn't it ridiculous the way this word
"Metabolic" is seized upon the fancy of all the writing clan?

No matter what they write about, the coal strike or carbuncles, the mosquitoes and their diseases, the babies and their mothers, the people and their politics, the nearest doctor is on the way.

Often the roads are so poor that a doctor cannot reach a patient at all.

In one case, the doctor traveled 10 miles to see a child in convulsions. After riding several hours, he lost his way in the night and had to return to town.

The next morning he set out again and reached the home by 3 o'clock, but the baby had died. He was blamed for the roads were in such a condition that no mail could be sent over them. In such districts a public health nurse is a vital necessity.

Nurses selected to care for mothers and infants according to standards of the Children's Bureau should not only be graduates with hospital training, but should have had practical experience in public health work.

A poor nurse is worse than none at all,
in the opinion of the Children's Bureau.

The existence of millions of ignorant mothers has led to the introduction of a bill in Congress to provide nurses with administrative backing with the purpose of creating a federal system of educating mothers in the care of their children.

MILLIONS TO BE APPROPRIATED.

Two million dollars would be apportioned by the federal government between the first and second years would put up a similar sum, the amount being apportioned according to population. Later the fund would be increased until it became a $4,000,000 appropriation from the government, to be doubled by the states.

The money would be used to pay public health nurses to instruct mothers in hygiene and care of infants, for consultation centers, and for medical and nursing care, for mothers and children, at home or in hospitals.

The Children's Bureau of the Labor Department is greatly interested in the bill. The bureau has kept so closely in touch with records of infant mortality and disease that it understands better than any other organization the need for federal aid to mothers and their babies.

The bureau's experts say the Children's Bureau is have a lower infant mortality rate than the United States, while we have a lower infant death rate. About 16,000 mothers and 260,000 babies die every year in this country. A large percentage of these deaths are preventable.

A woman will use directions to cut her children's clothes. She will follow a recipe to make a cake. But when it comes to feeding, bathing, and doctoring a baby, she is inclined to fall back on the customs of her mother and instinct. This is true, the Children's Bureau has found, not only in poor, illiterate households, but in the houses of the wealthy as well.

HAD EVERY DISEASE GOING.
"Grandmother raised me by the old fashioned methods," says the young mother, never stopping to consider that out of grandmother's 11 children only five grew up, and all that lived long enough had every disease known to childhood.

These mothers of the better class,
usually the wives of physicians,
usually the visits of a public health nurse is a form of charity. To get them to understand that government aid in child welfare is no more a matter of charity than the public school system, is one of the problems facing the Children's Bureau and with officials of the states engaged in child welfare work.

The states find that once the mothers are interested and learn the difference between science and the old fashioned methods, they have no one to take care of the housework while they are at the hospital.

The home help stays until the mother is able to resume her regular work.
Trial of this English plan in the United States is under consideration.
Each state will have a board of education and a corresponding board of health which will be composed largely with federal and state officials. Officers named in the bill are the Federal Board of Maternal and Infant Hygiene are the secretary of labor, the chief of the Children's Bureau, the surgeon general of the U. S. Public Health Service and the U. S. commissioner of education.

In the states there must be a similar board of state officials created if the state board of health has not a child welfare division.

SPECIAL CARE FOR MOTHERS.
Besides providing for maintenance of nurses and doctors, the proposed bill would establish especial care for mothers and infants at home or in hospitals.

We of the big burgs think we know something about dramatic criticism,
but how about this in a Dubuque

GIRLS VOLUNTEER TO MAKE PARTY SUCCESS

STREET CAR MEN CALL ON GOVERNOR

With interest in the national guard here growing among young men and girls and women, here now organized a wagon train in formation of the girls. Twelve girls, members of the Sammie Sisters, have agreed to be at the benefit dance to be held at the armory Friday night. They will act as hostesses.

A number of Janesville's prominent men, with their husbands, will attend the party and act as pitresses.

The idea behind this movement is that national guard here is a necessary addition to civic life, not merely to guarantee protection in case of fire, but to give young men a chance to live socially in the life of the community.

Several novelties have been planned for the occasion. The hall will be decorated, with the national colors predominating.

The Sammie Sisters who will be present are the Misses Rosalie French, Dorothy French, Mildred Smith, Dorothy Stevenson, Lucy Smith, Jean McNamee, Bertrice Smiles, Ruth Blackie, Miriam Deckler, Katherine Scholter, Etta Persson, and Elizabeth Mouat.

Patronesses and partners will be Mrs. and Mrs. A. E. Matheson, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Jackman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grant, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Foxford, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Putnam, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Kestor, and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Nichols and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Scholter.

IT'S EASY
When the Old Year went out
And the New Year came in,
He watched the kid's pout.
With a cynical grin.
And the youngster's distress
At the terrible mess
He'd left the place in.

"What's all this I find?
A treaty, unsigned,
Railroads in disorder,
A row on the border,
Prices still in the air,
The Reds on a tear,
I've worries a-plenty!"
Moaned poor Nineteen-Twenty.

But the Old Year just smiled
At the sniffling lad,
And remarked, "My dear child,
It isn't half bad,
This rubbish you see,
Is doughnuts and tea,
Against what I had!"

"Of course nobody likes
Riots, rough-house and strikes,
And the I. W. W.
Maybe will trouble you,
But you're lucky at that,
You don't wear a tin hat,
And not in your life!
You polish up a rifle,
Take it to town me
To this side of the sea
And you'll lead if you're wily,
The existence of Riley."

There is no excuse for an ex-soldier to be out of a job, says ex-Sergeant. If he can't find anything else, he can always organize a new veteran society.

REMEMBER THAT NIGHT?
(This was contributed by a modest veteran who signs himself "Casual.") I was one of those brave civilians who leapt full-armed and entirely untrained into the service. Some two weeks after my first inoculation I found myself on a transport with a replacement company and in three more weeks I had learned what a tin hat was issued to.

It was in a camp uncomfortably near German guns and my first trick of guard duty was marching around a miserable freight car. My special orders were very clear in my mind but nobody bothered me and before the sergeant who made his rounds awoke sounded and in a few minutes was watching the most beautiful set of fire-works I ever wished was some place else. There was no doubt in my mind that eight or ten German machines were after me and it occurred to me that there was something about taking cover in case of an air raid. My special orders were no cover except my miserable box-car. So I crawled under the car and pulled in my head. When I got back to the Guard House one of the men asked me where I ducked during the raid.

"Under the car," I said.
"Wouldn't done you much good," he grunted. "It's fulla ammunition."

Chandler Strides into Full Leadership

IF there has ever been any question as to Chandler leadership of the medium-priced fine car field, it is answered now. The great Chandler Six is sweeping its market. It displaces less efficient cars. It steps in to serve those who previously have chosen only high-priced cars. And it pleases everywhere.

From two thousand to three thousand discriminating Americans bought Chandler cars—open and closed—every month this Fall. And at no time has the demand been fully met. Thousands have waited months for their new Chandlers, and have felt repaid for waiting.

Nothing could more clearly show the regard in which America holds the Chandler Six, than the patience with which these thousands have waited for weeks and months for their Chandlers. They waited because they knew what they were waiting for—because they knew it was worth waiting for.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Thompson, In Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are girls of thirteen and fifteen years of age. We are sophomores and juniors in high school and inseparable companions. We both have known boys ever since we were in the classes and we have been going with these boys since we entered high. We are both in love with the boys and they tell us they love us.

Are we too young to become engaged? We feel that if anything should occur to separate us from these boys it would be simply unbearable. How can we tell whether they really love us? Our parents do not know of our love or intended engagement.

IN LOVE.

You are both several years too young to become engaged. I am sure that time will prove to you that love in the tenth year of life is not strong enough to bind boy and girl together. Try to regard the boys as friends and use discretion enough not to become engaged. Time will test their love and therefore you do not need to make any effort.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Can you tell me how to meet the nice young men here? I am about five years of age and would like to meet young people of about that age. My mother and I have moved here from a southern town, where I was raised. Since coming here I have met many nice people, but they were either fifteen or much older than I. At home I have always enjoyed going with the very best people of town and we entertained my friends in my home a great deal, and naturally I am homesick here.

M. P.

You should join the Y. W. C. A. and also attend the church which appeals to you most. Both of these organizations will take an interest in getting you acquainted. Tell your friends who are either older or have one real, true girl friend.

Write him in care of the Gazette, and if your letter is of special interest, it will be answered in this column; but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

THE HIGH COST OF SICKNESS—A Nig

(Note—Sickness is always a financial strain and in these parlous times it behoves the head of the family to compute the cost of his own illness as may be consistent with safety. Cut out each talk in this series as it appears and save the articles for future reference when the series is completed.)

About 12 o'clock on a cold November night the doctor's doorbell aroused him rudely from the Conquest of Peru. The Miller baby had—yes, yes, of course—"a cold," and now, after three days of horrid treatment, the parents telephoned the doctor. The general practitioner is always greatest after bedtime, somehow. Can it be that the double fee the doctor charges for a night visit has anything to do with it?

Mr. Miller had been on a strike for six weeks. In that time the family income had been $9 a week, earned by a 16 year old daughter who wrapped and packed kitchen ware in a factory nine to 11 hours a day. This week the strike was off, and Mr. Miller was again earning his weekly stipend of $4.50.

Mr. Miller's people, who had moved to the city a year or two ago to "get some of the big money," A family of seven, with a total income of $31.50 per week.

The baby had coryza, pure and simple, earache and feverish fever. In the baby some done in the form of "perfectly harmless" cough medicine, and babies are extremely sensitive to narcotics.

But what do the Millers care how much opium, morphine, heroin, paroxysmic, camphorated, other concoction, foot or neck bath, as long as the stuff quiets the child?

On the table there stood also a half empty jar of, oh, call it Bunkerine. This was according to the almanac a marvelous remedy for croup, colds, convulsions, such trifles it had added considerably to the baby's misery by blistering the child's chest. It is a shame to apply such stuff as mustard or oil of mustard to an infant's skin, but what do the Millers care about the baby, as long as it eases the doctor's bill?

A bottle of hairball cough done had cost Mr. Miller 75 cents. The box of Bunkerine had set him back 5 cents. He had no money left to pay the doctor. The Millers seldom have.

The baby is not going to have pneumonia," the doctor assured Mrs. Miller. "If you'll stop reeding the poor little tot that dope, and refrain from further irritation of his skin, he'll brighten up all right tomorrow." And so the doctor did his best of this medicina every hour. And here is the medicine the doctor prepared:

Cup of soda, one heaping tablespoonful; water, 15 teaspoonsful.

Medicine like that costs no harm, often less than good coats & traps, and may be given for anything that masquerades as a "cold."

She Married an Average Man

By ZOE BECKLEY.

I am younger than you desire that you are lonely and would like to meet people of your own age. Doubtless they can assist you. . . .

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl about sixteen years old. There is a real nice young man about eighteen who wishes to keep company with me. My folks object to my going out with him, but they think I am too young. Would it be proper for me to slip out and go without their consent sometimes? I like him very much and he seems to care a great deal for me.

I have gone with him several times and he acts like a gentleman.

F. M. S.

Your parents are right—you are too young to keep company with the young man. Do not disobey your parents and slip out. If you do, they will find out about it so will others who like to talk and gossiper injure your reputation. It is safer to wait a year or two until you are old enough to have a boy friend.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl eighteen years old, but still fond of nice fellow-soldiers. Although I am pretty, I cannot attract their attention. Please tell me why. LOVE DOVE.

Perhaps you think to much about boys and because of your interest in them they do not like you. Get over this and come to your senses. Remember that it takes more than beauty to make a person fascinating; it takes intelligence.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is it better to have one real true girl friend than many whom you aren't sure of?

J. M. H.

Personally I should prefer to have one real, true girl friend.

I am out of the frying pan of suspicion into the fire of new complications. Little story of that horrible night (it seems a month ago, but was little more than a week) proves as Athena said, that "everything is possible, and that a man hasn't fully taken a drink because he means to continue.

"There are reasons," he struggled on, "why I rather wish to leave New York. Things are rotten in the office. The managing Oakes offers no good goods, and would lead to an interest in the works."

"Jim said more, but I didn't listen. Something kept shouting in my brain, 'Funny Fribble is one of the reasons he wants to go.' Let him! Let him, if it's been a way."

"And he has gone to take the midnight train. And I am still at Athena's, dazed, stupefied. Out of the complexity of thought, I am plunged into the switchboard at our apartment out of order. Miss Molle fully intended sending the boy upstairs with a note, but she forgot. She had a date with the bookkeeper for a 'ubbie-doo' and theater afterward, and, being a perfectly human young woman, forgot all about my message!"

While I worked myself into a fine frenzy over Jim's failure to come home, I heard the sound of Oakes struggling with a broken axe or a country road "three miles from a habitation!"

"I got home at half past three in the morning." "The clever boy you have gone out at midnight, with a bag, leaving no message. Now, when a man comes in, worn to the bone with fatigue, cursing automobiles and trucks, in all the languages at his command, reading each and sheep, it jars him, Ann, to find a dark flat and a

"I knew something must have gone wrong with the message, and that your imagination, full of Funny Fribble, had conjured up a nice, jolly scandal. I knew the 'Never mind the rest, Jim.' I interrupted. "Let's not be bitter. And by the way, what did you mean by saying over the phone that you were going to leave me here at Athena's?"

"I'm so eager to get home, Jim. Of course, you were joking," said Jim.

"No, you wasn't joking," said Jim, soberly. "I've done a heap of thinking alone there at the flat, Ann. As I told you, I was on the point of go-

Milk and cream are supposed to be Pasteurized and clarified before they ever leave the milk stations in the country. But we don't take anybody's word for so vital a thing as Pasteurization. We Re-Pasteurize and Re-Clarify it and then we KNOW.

And by that sign and in that DIXIE name, YOU know.

So here's to the health of the Kiddies all over the land! Give them all the DIXIE they can eat. Let them spread it on thick. It coats from a third to a half less than butter. So you don't have to worry about the price. It tastes like butter. So they will like it. And it has even a higher Food Value than butter. So it will build them into little huskies, every one. Buy it, let them try it and see for yourself.

*Ask your family physician how vital Pasteurization is. Every Food Expert acknowledges this.

After a few applications of "Danderine" you seldom find a fallen hair or a particle of dandruff, besides every hair shows new life, vigor, brightness, more color and thickness.

A few cents buys a bottle of delightful "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter.

Devil's Own

A Romance of the Bucklaw War
BY RANDALL PARISH

ness Was King," etc.

The trembling words sounded strange and unnatural. I could barely whisper, yet I did my best:

"It is Steven, Eloise—come to me."

"Steven! Steven Knox—alive! Oh, my God! you have answered my prayer!"

She found me helpless, beneath those iron hands, between, as though guided by some instinct, and dropped on her knees beside me. I felt a tear fall on my cheek, and then the warm, eager pressure of her lips to mine. I could not speak; I could only hold her close with my one hand.

"You are suffering," she cried.

"What can I do? Is it this Indian's body?"

"Yes," I breathed, the effort of speaking an agony. "He lies directly across my chest, dead weight."

It taxed her strength to the utmost, but oh, the immediate relief! With the drawing of a long breath, I felt a return of energy, a revival of life. Another body pinned my limbs to the floor, but this was more easily disposed of. I managed to lift myself, but with the first attempt, her arm was about my shoulders.

"No; not alone—let me help you. Do you really think you can stand? Why, you are hurt, too; this is a knife wound in your side. It looks right, but it does not bleed and bleeds no more."

"My head rings, and this left arm appears paralysed, from blows, no which feel like burns. No, I am not in bad shape. Now let me stand alone; that's better. Good God, what a scene!"

The fire, by this time blazing brightly, gave the full view of the entire dismantled interior. The cabin walls were wreck, the roof practically all gone and the upper logs of the side walls either fallen within or dangling in threat. Clearly enough it had been the sudden plunge of heavy timbers and the lodgment of these upon logs which accounted for this hero of health.

There were dead there pierced by arrows and brained by rifle stocks, but the many had met their fate under the avalanche of logs and amid the blinding glare of exploding powder.

Only through arched timber and sections of fallen roof could we move at all, and beneath the network of this entanglement the majority of the Indians lay mangled. I saw Kirby, free from his bonds, but dead, beneath a heavy beam. His face toward us and the flicker of flame revealed a dark spot on his forehead—his life had never been crushed out by that plunging timber.

which pinned him there; it had been ended by a bullet. My eyes sought hers in swift memory of my last order, and she must have read my thought.

"No," she said, "not that, Steven. It was the boy who shot him. Oh, please, can we not go? There is light already in the sky overhead—there is safety away from here—anywhere outside."

"In a moment; all those surely are dead, beyond our aid, and yet we must not depart heedless. We know not how far it still may be to Ottawa. Wait, while I search for the things we need."

"Not alone; I must be where I can touch you. Try to understand. Oh, you do not know those hours I have spent in agony—I have died a thousand deaths since that sun went down."

"You were conscious—all night long?"

"Conscious? Yes, and unburst, yet pinioned helpless beneath those iron hands, I lived only by the overhanging bench. Else, poor thing, never knew how death came. It was so swift, but I lay there within a foot of her body, unscratched. I could think only of you, Steven, but with never a dream that you lived. There were groans at first and cries. Some Indians crept up, and dragged me out, a few who lived. But with the coming of darkness all sound ceased and such silence was even more dreadful than the calls for help. Oh, I cannot tell you, and she clung to me her voice breaking. "I—I dared not move for hours and then, when I did, tried to call to you, but that was bald fact. Once for a knife in the hands of a dead savage, which I managed to secure, I could never have freed myself. And oh, the unspeakable horror of creeping in the darkness among those bodies. I knew where the fireplace must be; that there might be live coals there still. I had to have light; I had to know if you were dead."

"Serve the punch, of course."

"Don't think about it any more, dear heart," I urged. "Yes, we can do no more; nothing else holds us here."

We crept out through the door, underneath a mass of debris, into the gray of the dawn. Beyond a little grove we found some horses browsing in the deep grass; they were those that had brought us from Yellow Banks, and which had given us shelter. Two of them went fit to ride and the others followed limping along behind.

A half mile up the valley we came to a beaten trail, running straight across from bluff to bluff, and disappearing directly toward the sun.

We stopped and looked back at the scene. There on the side of the slope, under the shade of the big tree, stood the cabin. Only for the wreck of the roof it spoke no message of the tragedy within. The sun's rays gilded it, and the smoke from its chimney seemed to be a ray of hope.

"What I whispered need not be told, and when we again rode forward, it was upon the trail."

No buttons were contributed.

An old native minister in a West Indian village assured that he had invented an automatic collection basket which would be passed around by the deacons of his church.

"It is so arranged, my brethren," said he, "that if you drop a quartar or half dollar, it falls noiselessly into a red plastic cushion which drops in a nickel bell ring. The bell can distinctly be heard by the entire congregation, but if you let fall a button, my brethren, it will fall off a pistol."

The new servant girl was told to order the family vegetables at the green grocer's. After asking what was asked for, the tradesman inquired:

"Won't your mistress want any horseshoe today? Some just in, nice and fresh."

Tossing her head indignantly, Mary Jane replied:

"No, indeed; she don't want no such thing. Mister keeps a motor car!"

"Do you think a college education helps a man in business?"

"Not right away," answered Mr. Dustin Stax. "But after a man gets rich enough to indulge in litigation school training will help a great deal in answering the lawyer's questions."

"Your wife seems highly pleased." "Yes, she bought ten shares of curb stock at 2 cents a share and it has now gone up to 3."

WHY CATARRH ALWAYS COMES WITH WINDY WINTER

Nature Gives a Cry for Help,
That Will Make This Winter
a Season of Good Health for You.

Winter and Catarrh are companions in evil. Catarrh is sweeping civilization from one continent to another, because civilization does not follow Nature's laws. Nature tells us what to do and we pay no heed.

Down deep in the body of man lie streams of blood, going everywhere and making a complete circuit of the body every few seconds. In these rivers, brooks and streamlets of blood flow millions of little soldiers called corpuscles, whose duty it is to heal hurts, expel the enemies of man—germs—from the body and carry away impurities.

Nature, with the blood, builds bone and hair and teeth and flesh. She does this so quickly and with such absolute perfection that if we put into our mouths and stomachs the things the body needs, nature will distill her own chemicals and build up any torn-down portions.

Catarrh is a tearing down of mucous membranes. A mucous membrane is one of the wonders of science. It does the important work of the body in some lines. When it becomes diseased, you quickly have the alarm from nature. Catarrh, in most cases, first warns us from a condition of the nose and throat. These membranes can not do their work. They become clogged. Impurities form and choke them. Decay starts, and the body is sold.

Go to your druggist, buy a bottle of B. S. S. and learn for yourself what the proper assistance will do for your Catarrh. S. S. is that assistance.

S. S. goes into the body like food. It mixes with the blood; seeks everywhere for disease germs and the body is made glad with nature's own remedy.

S. S. is sold wherever drugs are sold.

Use Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chills, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

30c and 60c jars; hospital size $2.50.

Placing salves and lotions in the nose, and taking pills, powders and purgatives will not give nature what she needs.

TRACTOR BASKET TEAM LOSES TO BESLEY CAGERS

Cripled by the loss of their captain, Besley, who was rendered from the game early in the first half for four personal fouls, coupled with the lack of ability to get started, the Samson Tractor basketball quintet met defeat from the Besley five at the Armory last night, 32 to 10.

At the start the teams were seemingly even matched. The Besley started slow, while Besley led forward, opened the scoring for the Line City team. Donahue was called soon after for walking with the ball. The attempt at a free throw proved fruitless. Harmon fouled again; Besley missed. Harmon fouled again; Besley and Blanchard left toward the bench, caged the throw. Blanchard fouled, the Samson attempt again fell short. Harmon was called for a third foul; the basket was not made. At this period Harmon was warned of the three personal fouls against him. Play once more assumed, lasted for a short time, when again he was called for the removal of Harmon. Davey substituted for the captain and with his entrance the Tractor City team showed speed. A foul by Blanchard netted one count for the locals. Bill Gates, field center for the Samsons, gained a field goal, the time for the first half was called with the score: Besley 11; Samson 8.

The second half opened fast. Davey scored for the locals. Bording followed, caging a long shot for the Beloit team. Samson with numerous attempts at goals, started playing hard luck, which continued all of the second half. The Tractor team played hard and fast, but were unable to get together on passes or caging. Two double fouls featured the start of the second half. Donahue was removed. He was replaced by Gates and Gates replaced him. Gates fouled and the Samson chance failed. Excellent team-work on the part of Gates, Beimier and Lien netted goals in short order.

Hopes of Samson fans loomed bright for a short time when Hunter and Lien started team-work. Gates, with numerous attempts at goals, which were reflected off or spun around and came out of the basket. Lien and Bording were Besley's chief scoring aces.

The final score: Besley, 32; Samson, 10.

DESCAMPS ACCEPTS COFFROTH'S $400,000 FOR DEMPSEY FIGHT

Paris, Jan. 7.—George Carpenter and Jack Dempsey will probably meet in America for the championship of the world as a result of the proposed fight, which by Desamps, manager for Carpenter, is offered of $400,000 purse for the bout by James Coffroth.

Dempsey has already accepted Coffroth's terms and all that remains to insure the meeting is the number of rounds in the bout.

Coffroth's offer was for bout going 45 rounds but objection to a fight of this length is expressed in the Carpenter camp. Carpenter would have the fight limited to 15 rounds or even less. Desamps declared last night that if the issue is not settled in less than 15 rounds neither Dempsey or Carpenter is worthy to be the champion of the world.

It was indicated Desamps would ask for an even break of the purse, holding that Carpenter was as great a drawing card as Dempsey.

Los Angeles, Jan. 7.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, woke up this morning to learn from the public prints that he and Georges Carpenter, who had expressed a desire to meet in the ring, would meet sometime soon at Tijuana, Lower California.

James D. Coffroth, recently obtained an agreement from Dempsey's manager, Jack Keans, for the champion to meet Carpenter at Tijuana and Carpenter last night brought word that Carpenter's manager had agreed to the match.

BIG GAMES COMING FOR LAKOTA PLAYERS

Whitewater has been booked by the Lakota Cardinals to play here at the armory next Saturday night, according to an announcement made this morning. Whitewater has a strong combination of tall men, so far as can be determined.

Word was given by the Cardinals managers this morning that Baslos' team, backed by the Harrison, and President B. B. Johnson of the American league have notified Chairman Hermann, the third member of the commission, that they will attend.

The game will be decided by the result of the next game played by the one that wins, and next to be called the winner of both games.

By last night's games, Newman's team is given ten points, and each of the others seven.

The meeting may result in the appointment of a successor to Hermann as chairman of the commission. If no new chairman is elected, the subject will at least form one of the chief discussions, as Hermann has frequently announced that he is ready to resign as soon as a suitable man is selected to take his place.

It is known that the committee from the two major leagues, authorized to select a successor to Hermann, has not had a meeting for weeks, and, in fact, has not appointed an successor to President Frank Navin of the Detroit American League, who died in December.

In 1914 they went to Oswego, where they represented the city for three years, and won the United States championship by defeating the Buffalo Germans three out of four games. Two years later they again met, this time in the Anti-Kolchuk revolution, and were defeated by the Indians on the seventh and Sheboygan on the tenth.

Honolulu—Street lighting in Irakusik in the Anti-Kolchuk revolution is reported in a Japanese newspaper here.

Chicago—Maroon basket tossers last night bumped off Lake Forest Academy, 33 to 3, at Bartlett gym.

HERMANN MAY BE OUSTED TOMORROW WHEN MOGULS MEET

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 7.—The National Basketball Commission, which has been in annual meetings, and both President John Heyder of the National League and President B. B. Johnson of the American league have notified Chairman Hermann, the third member of the commission, that they will attend.

The meeting will be decided by the result of the next game played by the one that wins, and next to be called the winner of both games.

New York and Boston clubs of the American league also are said to have opposed Hermann.

The question of awarding third place money in the American league championship race in 1919 probably will be another subject under discussion.

New York finished third in the race with Carl May, ordered suspended by Johnson, but retained on the pitching staff by virtue of a court injunction.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 27.—The passing of "Babe" Ruth, slugger extraordinaire and pitcher of high degree from the Boston Red Sox to the New York Americans for the largest sum ever paid for any baseball player was due to Ruth's ergo, President Harry Huggins paid yesterday.

"I sold Ruth to the best interests of the Boston club," he explained. "The Babe was not an influence for good or for team play. He thought only of himself, whether the question was one of bread or contracts or making long contracts." The Red Sox, however, did not bolt the team as it stood yesterday without Ruth and with certain prospective additions would be 25 percent stronger.

Los Angeles, California, Jan. 6.—"Babe" Ruth, who was sold by the Boston club to the New York Americans said yesterday he did not yet sign a contract for 1920 with Miller Higgins, manager of the Chicago Maroons.

Higgins, who signed Ruth to a two-year deal, said Ruth had admitted that he and Higgins had reached an oral agreement,
